

Jan Placko: My name is Jan Placko. My dad has been a resident of Ashley Gardens for a little over two years now, and we're very, very happy that he's here. My father was showing signs of dementia at home, and I was trying to keep him in his home as long as possible. I was doing [00:00:30] my own assisted living and it was not working. He would take medicine at the wrong times, he wouldn't eat his meals right, and it was dangerous for him to be by himself for long periods of time. Ashley Gardens has some of the most professional people I've ever met when it comes to dementia and the skills for dealing with patients with dementia. Their care for my father has been nothing less than excellent. [00:01:00] They are able to work with him, encourage him, help him when he might be having a difficult day or be confused about something, and it has worked out so well.

Luis Serrano: Our mission is to provide the seniors in our community with a safe and happy place to call home. We strive to provide a quality environment for them where they can succeed in making friends and becoming part of our family. The attributes that better define us [00:01:30] are people, passion, and excellence. People because our staff is what makes the biggest difference in the lives of our residents. The passion and dedication that they exhibit every day on a daily basis with our residents is unmatched. And excellence, that is the criteria that we have to provide all our services, all the things that make the resident happy and feeling among the family in our community.

Stephen Eatman: When residents come to us, it's typically because something in their [00:02:00] life is challenging them holding onto their independence. So what we try to do is offer amenities that allow them to keep their independence, but make their lifestyle a lot easier. So that's our all day dining program, that's our 24 hour dedicated staff, transportation, all these other things that are going to help them keep their independence longer.

Jan Placko: He has met people here and has become more social since he's been [00:02:30] here than he ever was in the past few years at home. It's beautiful to see him having a blossoming time at this point in his life. I am thrilled that he is in such a wonderful community.
