

Albert Morosi: My name is Albert Morosi and I'm 94 years old.

Lorraine Morosi: My name is Lorraine Morosi and I'm 92 years old.

Albert Morosi: We've lived here approximately 16 months.

Lorraine Morosi: We met in 1938 going to high school and as far as our being 90 years old-

Albert Morosi: I don't think it could be over backwards anymore to help a person. They've really, really been wonderful and I'm not just [00:00:30] saying that because this is being interviewed. That's really true.

Luis Serrano: Our mission is to provide the seniors in our community with a safe and happy place to call home. We strive to provide a quality environment for them, where they can succeed in making friends and becoming part of our family.

Luis Serrano: The attributes that better define us are people, passion and excellence. People because our staff is what made the biggest difference in the lives of our residents. The passion and dedication [00:01:00] than they exhibit every day, on a daily basis with our residents, is unmatched. And excellence, that's the criteria that we have to provide all our services, all the things that make the resident happy and feeling among family in our community.

Stephen Eatman: When residents come to us, it's typically because something in their life is challenging them holding onto their independence. So what we try to do is [00:01:30] offer amenities that allow them to keep their independence, but make their lifestyle a lot easier. So that's our all day dining program, that's our 24 hour dedicated staff, transportation, all these other things that are going to help them keep their independence longer.

Ann Zlatunich: The older you get, it seems like the more control you lose over your life and I think it's important for them to know that they really have control over their lives. You know, [00:02:00] they don't have to go down for dinner. They can stay in their room if they like. There was so many options for them and things that they can do, and I think that's great.

Rena Radovich: It really gives you peace of mind.

Lorraine Morosi: My favorite part, I think, is not having to cook.

Albert Morosi: I think they did a wonderful job of vetting the servers. I think we have the friendliest bunch of servers that I've ever seen. I like more than anything, you can come and go as you please. I mean, nobody bothers you, nobody tells you where you're going or anything like... [00:02:30] Nobody hinders you from going anytime and that's what makes it so wonderful.
