

Speaker 1: Well, we are hopefully just weeks away from getting the first round of COVID-19 vaccines here in Florida. Governor Ron DeSantis says people who live in long-term care facilities will get those vaccines first. And the executive director at the Fountain Crest Retirement Community in Lehigh Acres says they hope to be one of the first facilities in line. The community's executive director says it will be up to residents and staff members if they choose to get the vaccine. They will not be forced to get it.

Speaker 2: High-risk frontline [00:00:30] healthcare workers, and those at longterm care facilities will be prioritized. It's something Fountain Crest Retirement Community in Lehigh Acres says residents are looking forward to.

Speaker 3: I've had residents even ask me today and I said, "Oh, I know we're just so excited." I mean, we're excited for them being the most vulnerable population.

Speaker 2: Fountain Crest is among the first communities to enroll in the CDC's COVID-19 vaccine program. It's partnered with CVS to help administer the vaccine once it is FDA approved.
