

Esther Miller: My name is Esther Miller and my age is 100 years old. I have been here about six months and very happy and satisfied because I get good care and so, I'm glad that my children found his place for [00:00:30] me.

Kathy Bledsoe: Well, we felt like it was time to have her be a part of a community where she could meet more friends. We wanted it to be a safe environment and we knew she needed assistance. And by visiting The Gardens, it was evident that this was going to be the place.

Luis Serrano: The attributes that better define this are people, passion and excellence. People because our staff is [00:01:00] what makes the biggest difference in the lives of our residents. The passion and dedication that they exhibit every day on a daily basis with our residents is unmatched. And excellence, that's the criteria that we have to provide all our services, all of the things that make the resident happy and feeling among family in our community.

Stephen Eatman: When residents come to us, it's typically because something in their life is challenging them holding onto their independence. So [00:01:30] what we try to do is offer amenities that allow them to keep their independence, but make their lifestyle a lot easier. That's our all day dining program, that's our 24 hour dedicated staff, transportation, all these other things that are going to help them keep their independence longer.

Luis Serrano: Our mission is to provide the seniors in our community with a safe and happy place to call home. We strive to provide a quality environment for them, where they can succeed in [00:02:00] making friends and becoming part of our family.

Esther Miller: The administrative staff is always there when we need anything. The caregivers are just wonderful. They know mother by name. They know her needs. The staff in the kitchen knows they need to cut her food up. When mother has a concern when she's in her apartment, she presses her button and they're here within a few minutes to help [00:02:30] her. It just seems that we're part of the family and that makes it special.
