

Speaker 1: A South Austin retirement community will be near the front of the line for a COVID-19 vaccine. After signing up with the CDC, their Continental retirement community will be among the first to receive the vaccine. And through a pharmacy partnership program, The Continental will work with CVS and receive the vaccinations for all residents and staff for free but even after the vaccine is administered, there will still be rules in place because of the pandemic.

Everret William...: We certainly have to [00:00:30] follow our protocols and do what's best to keep the residents as safe as possible. I know a lot of people are anxious to just get back to normal.

Speaker 1: Officials with Pfizer, one of the companies applying for FDA emergency authorization says Texas will be one of the first States to receive the vaccine, but the 20 initial sites will likely get vaccinations provided to medical workers before the vaccine is publicly available.
